CARDIOLOGY

This dynamic HeartPlace duo, Drs. Shelley Hall and Rick Snyder, has cardiology in Dallas covered! Both Best Doctors in Dallas say the couple that practices at separate hospitals, stays together. Nearing the celebration of their 25th anniversary, they raised five children, cheer for the Stars and Cowboys, and escape to the beach when they can.

Dr. Hall is board certified in heart failure/transplant cardiology and is the chief of transplant cardiology at Baylor Scott & White Dallas. Raised on Cape Cod, she got to Texas as quickly as she could. Her entire career has been dedicated to advanced heart failure and transplantation. She serves on multiple national organizations including UNOS representative for Texas and Oklahoma, and chairs the cardiac subcommittee of the UNOS national thoracic committee. She is incoming chair of the thoracic committee of the American Society of Transplantation and the heart failure chair of the Texas Chapter of the American College of Cardiology. Dr. Hall has been honored by D Magazine five times as a Best Doctor. She leads the largest transplant program in Texas.

Board certified in cardiovascular disease, interventional cardiology, and heart failure/transplant cardiology, Dr. Snyder serves as president of HeartPlace. A former president of the medical staff at Medical City Dallas, he has also served on the board of governors for the American College of Cardiology in D.C., as well as president of the Texas chapter. In 2012, he was president of the Dallas County Medical Society. He currently serves on the board of trustees for the Texas Medical Association and its 50,000 members and on the Dallas County Health and Human Services Public Health Advisory Committee. Dr. Snyder has been honored by D Magazine 13 times as a Best Doctor. Raised in Dallas, he attended Jesuit and subsequently Notre Dame and remains an avid fan of the Fighting Irish.
